What's been happening in school

Yesterday teaching staff completed their 'Wild Tribe' training. This course delivers practical and theory sessions on; health and safety, site development and linking outdoor learning across a range of curriculum subjects. It teaches the skills of fire lighting, cooking outdoors, use of tools, knots and shelter building. Knowing that outdoor learning can really help with the building of self-esteem and confidence. They are now excited to be able to run forest school sessions for all children at Wembury and make use of our wonderful grounds.
